PATRIOTIC LAWN FETE IN IRVINGTON INTERESTING EVENT

Irvington, July 30, (Special)—The patriotic Song Fete which was held on Mrs. J. M. Herndon's lawn Friday evening was a marked success. The crowd was inspired with our country's songs, My Country 'Tis of Thee, Old Kentucky, Dixie. A number of life pictures were presented depicting southern scenes, one of the best being a plantation picture, Miss Mabel Adkins disguised as a Southern mammy rocking the cradle, assisted by Miss Martha Howe Britte and Jess Herndon Jr., who posed as pickaninies, while Mabel sang Swing Low Sweet Chariot. Modern Red Cross work was pictured. Miss Virginia Bandy posed as Betsy Ross, Don Lyddan as George Washington. The crowd cheered lustily when the Goddess of Liberty was represented by Miss Eliza Piggott. Don Lyddan in a sailor suit represented the Navy, while Sergeant Coniff in his khaki uniform represented the Army. W. J. Piggott made a very interesting talk on the Red Cross work referring especially to Florence Nightingale and Clara Barton. Subscriptions for the Red Cross work was taken up. Ice cold drinks were served. After singing, Carry Me Back to Old Virginia, Swanee River, O' Columbia the Gem of the Ocean, and The Star Spangled Banner, the bunch enjoyed chats with their friends. Miss Julia Lyon was at the piano during the evening assisted by Miss Guedy Bramlette with the violin.

Materials For Red Cross Work Received.

The Chairman of the Cloverport Red Cross Society has received the materials for making handkerchiefs, tray covers etc. and the cotton for knitting wash clothes for the soldier boys. The work will be distributed at the meetings which are held at 2 o'clock every Tuesday and Friday afternoons. All the women, whether members of the Red Cross Society or not are invited to come to the meetings and help put in a few stitches.

Candidates Were Busy In Town Saturday.

The Candidates from over the County are quite busy "making hay while the sun shines" as they only have a few more days left before the Primary election. They were conspicuous in this city Saturday, the chautauqua being the attraction for them and for a number of people from the surrounding country.

Roy Cain, Irvington candidate for Representative was here, S. B. Payne, Irvington candidate for County Judge, Austin Arms candidate for Jailor and three of his opponents who are Roe Hook, Hardinsburg, Tice Hendrick, Clover Creek and Julius B. Jackson, Tar Fork.

Brandenburg Women Have A Creditable Association.

The Women's Cemetery Association of Brandenburg held a joint Memorial service with the Odd Fellows lodge of that city on Decoration Day.

Miss Mona Price, who is quite a public spirit woman of Brandenburg, read an interesting paper at the service which was published in full in last week's Meade County Messenger.

Miss Price stated that the Association had been organized ten years and had expended $803.82 in that course of time. They have started an endowment fund which amounted to $33, thus far.

Mrs. J. D. Hardin conceived the idea of the association and the late Mrs. Abe Ditto was the first president.

The association has done some creditable work.

Exemption Board Has Not Been Completed.

The Exemption Board for Breckinridge county has not been determined thus far. Gov. Stanley has appointed Sheriff Beard, Dr. Sphire and Lee Walls. Owing to Mr. Beard's illness, he will in all probability not be able to serve and the other two men have not accepted the appointments.

Examinations are to be made at the county seat as soon as definite plans are made concerning the board. The drafted men will be notified when to appear for examination. Four hundred men are to be called; the quota being 119.

LONG BOY

He was just a long, lean country gink From away out west where the hoplands wink. He was six feet two in his stockin' feet, But he kep' gettin' thinner the more he'd eat.

Yet he was as brave as he was thin. When the war broke out he got right in, Unfitted his plow, put the mule away, And then the old folks heard him say:

REFRAIN.
Goodby, ma! Goodby, pa!
Goodby, ma, with yer old heehaw!
I may not know what the war's about, But, you bet, by gosh, I'll soon find out! An', oh, my sweetheart, don't you fear, I'll bring you a king for a souvenir! I'll git you a Turk an' a kaiser, too, An' that's about all one feller could do.

One pair of socks was his only fond When he struck fer town by the old dirt road.

He went right down to the public square An' fell in line with the soldiers there. The sergeant put him in uniform; His gal knit mitts fer to keep him warm; They drilled him late, they drilled him long, Then he marched away to his farewe'll song.

—William Hirsch in Collier's Weekly.

Six Year Old Boy Dies of Cholera Infantum.

McQuady, July 30, (Special)—James DeHart, the six year old son of Rev. Leslie DeHart and Mrs. DeHart, died Thursday, July, 19, of cholera infantum. The child was sick only a few days and suffered intensely all the time. The funeral was held the following Friday, services conducted by Rev. Meng. The remains were buried in the McQuady graveyard.

The pall bearers were: Misses Sudie Bates, Mary Bates, Mary Belle Lyons and Pearl Lyons.

Shoots Wife and Self.

St. Louis, Mo., July 30.—After shooting his wife, Mrs. Ella Snyder, here this morning, Charles Snyder, 57, turned his revolver on himself. Both were alive when police arrived. The couple have four children. No cause is known.

Charles Snyder is a brother to Horace Snyder of Oklahoma and is now visiting his old home near Bewleyville. He passed through St. Louis recently on his way here but did not see his brother. He can't account for the trouble.

Gospel To Follow Flag.

Complete Testaments bound in khaki so that they can go into the field in regulation fighting clothes, are being prepared for the soldiers of the country and Bibles in every tongue, from Chinese to Yiddish, are being published by the hundreds of thousands so that the Gospel may follow the flag. Ministers and priests of all the churches in the United States, Protestants and Catholic are offering their services for religious work at the training camps.

New York and New Jersey Guardsmen have received invitations from the ministers of Spartanburg, Petersburg, Atlanta, Louisville and Houston to accept the religious hospitality that is to be provided in the vicinity of the training camps. Twenty million Sunday school children are being organized to take part in the war work, with all sorts of tasks assigned to them. Sixty societies of Catholic women are busy forming a war bond to help the Knights of Columbus to furnish the building that are to be erected in this country and in France.

The demand by newly appointed chaplains for equipment has caused the American Bible Society to ask for $150,000 to be used in printing new works. One about to fight to make the world safe for democracy can get St. John's Gospel for two and a half cents and the Proverbs on the same scale, with complete Testaments for eight cents.—New York Sun.

Baptist Mission Board to Meet Here.

The Baptist Mission Board of Breckinridge Association met in Hardinsburg, Monday. Owing to the large per cent of members who failed to attend, it was concluded best to adjourn the meeting and to meet with the annual Association which will be in session in Cloverport, Wednesday after the fourth Sunday in August.

TO THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS OF BRECKINRIDGE COUNTY.

After having made as thorough a canvass as time would permit me to make, I realize that I have failed to see many of the Democratic voters of Breckinridge county. I have tried to make an honorable race for the nomination which I now seek as Jailor of Breckinridge county, without saying aught against my opponents. I now submit my claims to the Democrats, and ask each voter to consider carefully, and decide for yourselves whether or not I deserve the nomination, and whether or not the Democratic party owes me this nomination at this time. I made a hard fight four years ago, was defeated along with other Democratic candidates in the final election, but worked untiringly from the time I received the nomination until the final vote was cast. It has long been a precedent of the Democratic party, under such circumstances, to give the defeated candidate, who has spent his time and made an expensive campaign, the nomination the second time in order that he may make even a harder fight. If you will consider my claims and give me the nomination for jailor of your county, I pledge you now that I will carry the honor to victory in November, if it can be done by any democrat in Breckinridge county. In other words I will work from now until November trying to carry the Democratic ticket to victory.

Respectfully,

Tice Hendrick.

INDICT BERKMAN FOR MURDER

Anarchist Accused of Plotting Fatal Bomb Explosion.
San Francisco.—Alexander Berkman, anarchist, was indicted by the grand jury here for murder in connection with the bomb explosion here last July, in which ten lives were lost. He is accused of taking part in the conspiracy, which, the state charges, culminated in the explosion. Mrs. Rena Mooney was put on trial here for one of the bomb murders, and her husband, Thomas, and Warren K. Billings are under sentence of death and life imprisonment respectively for murder, growing out of the explosion.

Berkman, now serving two years in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., for conspiracy to defeat the draft law in New York city, with the aid of Emma Goldman, also sentenced to two years' imprisonment, published an anarchist paper called the Blast about the time of the explosion.

District Attorney Fickert said efforts will be made to bring Berkman here for trial before the expiration of his sentence.

CARP WAR ON JAPANESE.

Truck Farmer Harvests Immature Crop to Save It.

Hood River, Ore.—T. Matsumoto, Japanese truck gardener whose acres were inundated when the Columbia freshet broke over his dikes, is conducting the most unique harvest ever witnessed in Hood River.

Pushing a flatboat along his water covered truck rows, the Japanese is cutting off immature cabbage heads three feet under water.

The Japanese is having to hurry this operation in order to save any of his crop, for swarms of carp have come in at the break in the dike and are ravenously eating the gardener's fresh vegetables.

REMOVES MEN'S HATS.

Patriotic Young Woman Member of Band Adopts Forceful Methods.

Defiance, O.—Miss June Speiser, a member of the Girls' band of Defiance, took an unusual method to teach respect for the national anthem to an audience at Florida the other evening. The band was playing "The Star Spangled Banner" in a street in Florida when Miss Speiser noticed that the men in the audience did not remove their hats.

She put down her horn in the middle of the selection, walked toward the audience and removed the hat from the head of the first man she met. Several others were treated to the same dose, and finally all hats came off, and there was great applause for the patriotic little lady, who is sixteen years of age.

Moweaqua, Ill. July 24 17

Mr. John Babbage,

Dear Sir—I am enclosing $1.50 for subscription to the Breckinridge News. Be sure and send this paper as I do not want to miss a copy.

Wheat and oats are good here and corn is looking well. We had a fine rain this evening. I wonder what has become of Joe Mulhatan? Maybe he has gone to fight the Germans. I was spying around as I came home from work the other evening and came very near getting shot by what I thought was a bunch of Germans I ventured a little closer and found it to be Emil White, Roy Beavin, Albert Elder, Eugene Smith and others to numerous to mention. Roy said he was looking for "Old Mul" but as he could not find him he leveled down on me and shot. (with his Brownie)
Hope this will find all enjoying peace and happiness. I remain as ever your friend.

FACED DANGERS TO REGISTER

Oil Man Walked Eleven Miles and Swam Flooded Streams.

Ellsworth, Kan.—Heavy rains and swollen streams almost compelled Carl Holt of this city to miss registering. Holt is a tool dresser for the Shamrock-Cushing oil drill, eleven miles southeast of Ellsworth. He was required to register here.

When Holt, late in the afternoon, started to drive into Ellsworth with his car he found himself cut off by streams which had flooded and washed out the bridges.

He promptly discarded the car, swam the creek and started to walk the eleven miles to Ellsworth. In the course of his walk he found it necessary to navigate other streams in a like manner. Fifteen minutes before 9, wet, muddy and tired, he rushed into the registration hall and signed his name to the card.

PERSHING FAVORS FRENCH SYSTEM

Every Army Unit May Be Re-organized at Once.

SOME INCREASED, SOME CUT

Each Company Under the New Plans Would Be Composed of 250 Men With a Captain and Four Lieutenants—Action Shows That Our Forces Are Expected to Co-operate With French.

The first important result of General Pershing's conferences at the Paris war office and observations on the western front will be a reorganization of the United States army along the lines of the French units.

The reorganization will affect every company, regiment and division of the present regular establishment and the militia units that are about to go to camp. The national army, called under the draft, will be organized altogether along French lines.

Orders for the reorganization are now being prepared by the general staff and will be telegraphed to the various departmental commanders about the date of the field mobilization of the militia.

Pershing's Recommendations.
As a result of the experience of the civil war, supplied with lessons taken from European wars of fifty years, the American army was organized on the basis of from 100 to 150 men to a company, 1,200 to 1,800 to a regiment and approximately 28,500 to a division. The war college has insisted that this represented the best possible system of organization for a number of reasons of a technical nature.

General Pershing has been convinced by the French general staff that such organizations were proper under the old methods of warfare, but that the United States should do away completely with this system if the American troops are to be of the utmost possible service to the allies' cause.

In place of these units General Pershing has recommended by cable that the companies be increased to 250 men, regiments to 3,000 and divisions be cut approximately to 17,000.

As it would be impossible to expect France to reorganize an army of millions, General Pershing reported that this country should immediately build its system along the lines already followed by the greater force.

When General Pershing's report was received officers of the war college division of the general staff objected strenuously to an adoption of the French system. Some of the younger officers complained bitterly that the United States should not throw overboard a system that was adopted because it was believed to be perfect.

Will Shake Up Minor Officers.
The principal reason ascribed for the change is that American troops are expected to occupy trenches alternately with French troops. Unless the units are in the same size confusion would result from the interchange. In other words, if a French division of 17,000 men was withdrawn so that an American could take the trench it would be manifestly impossible to make the change. Conversely, the same difficulties would arise from attempting to use American companies and regiments in trenches occupied by French organizations.

As a result of the change there will be a general shakeup of officers in minor commands. In the American organization a company is commanded by a captain, assisted by a first and second lieutenant. Under the new system the captain will remain in command, but will probably be mounted, and he will have four lieutenants under him.

No change is anticipated in the battalion or regimental commands. A major will command the former and a colonel the latter, as under the present system. A colonel under the new system will have almost as many troops as a brigadier general now has. A division at present is commanded by a major general.

Entire Service Affected.
It is assumed that the new divisions of smaller size will have a commanding officer of the same grade. While the proposed change appears to be merely a matter of readjustment in numbers, as a matter of fact it affects every branch of the service, and they must all be reappointed to meet the reorganization. As an example: The quartermaster corps, the medical corps and every other staff organization, with transports, materials and supplies, is built on the present regimental and divisional lines. All must be changed to meet the requirements of the new system.

One of the significant aspects of this reorganization is that the calculations all are based upon the French system rather than the British. Indicating General Pershing anticipates the closest kind of co-operation with the armies of General Petain rather than of Haig.

Fell Four Stories; Lives.
Doctors say two-year-old girl of New York is first to tumble four stories, touching nothing on way down, and live. But they can't explain how it happened.

Next Spring Styles.
No pockets, belts or cuffs on next spring's suits, men will have to carry belongings in vest bags or knapsacks.

ROOTS AND BARK ANCIENT REMEDY

Our Grandfathers Used Them In Crude Form.

CHIEF INGREDIENTS OF TONIC

Our grandfathers and great-grandfathers knew the medicinal values of roots, barks, flowers and berries. Their medicinal qualities are the same now as they were a hundred years ago, but the scientific process of treating them has been improved.

In former times the herbs were brewed into teas. Today modern laboratories make a vastly superior product. Tanlac is a preparation of roots, barks and berries subjected to a process that extracts their medicinal virtues in concentrated form. It is especially designed to build up run down people. It has helped thousands who were suffering from disordered stomachs, liver and kidneys.

George R. Kelly, a mail carrier of New Hope, Ky., is one of the thousands in the Blue Grass State who have endorsed Tanlac. Here is what he has to say about this wonderful tonic:

"I had trouble with my stomach and bowels. After eating I had cramps. I lost my appetite and got so I hated to eat anything. I felt bad all over. My tongue was coated and I had a bad taste in my mouth.

"Nothing helped me before I started taking Tanlac. I took three bottles and by that time I could eat anything without having cramps. I am feeling fine now. Tanlac helped me from the start and I have recommended it to many of my friends."

If you are not feeling right get Tanlac today.

Tanlac can be bought in Cloverport at Wedding's.

FIRE WHISTLE BRINGS BOY.

Little One Was Lost, but He Came In to Inquire.

Logansport, Ind.—Jimmy Slagle, aged four, had been missing from his home here all day. Neighbors joined in the search, and later Mrs. Slagle notified the police.

The siren whistle at the electric light plant, which is blown when a fire alarm is turned in to notify people to shut off the water, was used in an effort to arouse the citizens.

Soon the newspaper offices and police headquarters were swamped with calls to know the meaning of the extended blowing of the whistle. They were notified that the Slagle boy was lost, and a general search of the city began. Toward evening Jimmy walked into a fire station in the business part of the city, pulling a wagon behind him. He said he heard the whistle and wanted to know about the fire.

SHOE FOOLS BOOTBLACKS.

Trio of Wounded Tommies Has One Leg Left to Stand on.

London.—Three invalid soldiers in wheel chairs propelled themselves rapidly through a crowded railway station here to a bootblack stand and demanded that their shoes be shined in a hurry. Three bootblacks rushed forward, pulled aside the coats thrown over the laps of the soldiers and found that two of the men had no legs, while the third had only one.

The soldiers laughed uproariously, the crowd joining in the demonstration of mirth.

FACTS ABOUT OUR NAVY AS TOLD BY LIEUTENANT

Tells of the Effect of Constant Firing on the Large Caliber Guns—Other Details.

A fourteen inch gun is built up from eight or ten hoops or steel tubes. Each is turned to an exact fit less several thousandths of an inch, then heated red until expansion permits it to be drawn on. It cools and adds strength not only by its thickness, but by the grip of its shrinking, writes Lieutenant Fitzhugh Green of the United States battleship Texas for the Vigilantes.

The first or inner tube has helical grooves to give rotation to the shell, just as in any sporting rifle. Tremendous firing pressures between fifteen and twenty tons per square inch, combined with acid gases and other products of explosion, cause erosion or wearing away and pitting of the grooves. Inner tubes must be renewed periodically. The life of the gun, so called, is about 150 shots. Since frequent target practices are held few years elapse before guns must be taken ashore and retubed. The total cost of retubing a fourteen inch gun is in the neighborhood of $25,000.

Besides the inner erosion, constant shocks of explosion crystallize the whole steel structure. Crystallization of metal may be likened to the drying of cheese. At first the mass is relatively tough and elastic. After the heavy punishment of protracted firing, gun tubes weaken and become brittle. Microscopic examination reveals contraction and disintegration of metal particles, just as cracks and crumbly sections occur in a cheese. Further use of the gun is dangerous. Sometimes the crystallized state is reached sooner than was expected. The guns crack or burst. On the Michigan fifteen feet of a twelve inch gun broke off and fell on deck. On the next load the gun captain, having opened the breech to report "bore clear," shouted, "There ain't no bore!"

The charge of a fourteen inch gun is 385 pounds of smokeless powder put up in four silk-linen bags. The back end of each bag is painted red and contains about four ounces of black powder called the ignition charge. A brass primer similar to a rifle cartridge except it has no bullet ignites the black powder, which in turn sets fire to the smokeless powder. Contrary to popular belief, there is no real explosion, but a progressive burning of enormous rapidity. Vast volumes of gas at high temperature and pressure are produced, forcing the projectile out.

A fourteen inch shell weighs 1,400 pounds, is five feet long and contains a bursting charge. Twelve strong men lift one with difficulty. Yet from the gun it can sink a battleship twelve miles away. It travels at the rate of 2,000 feet a second, or a mile every two seconds. On striking it expends an energy of 65,687 foot tons, or enough to transport a load of two tons to twice the height of Mount Everest.

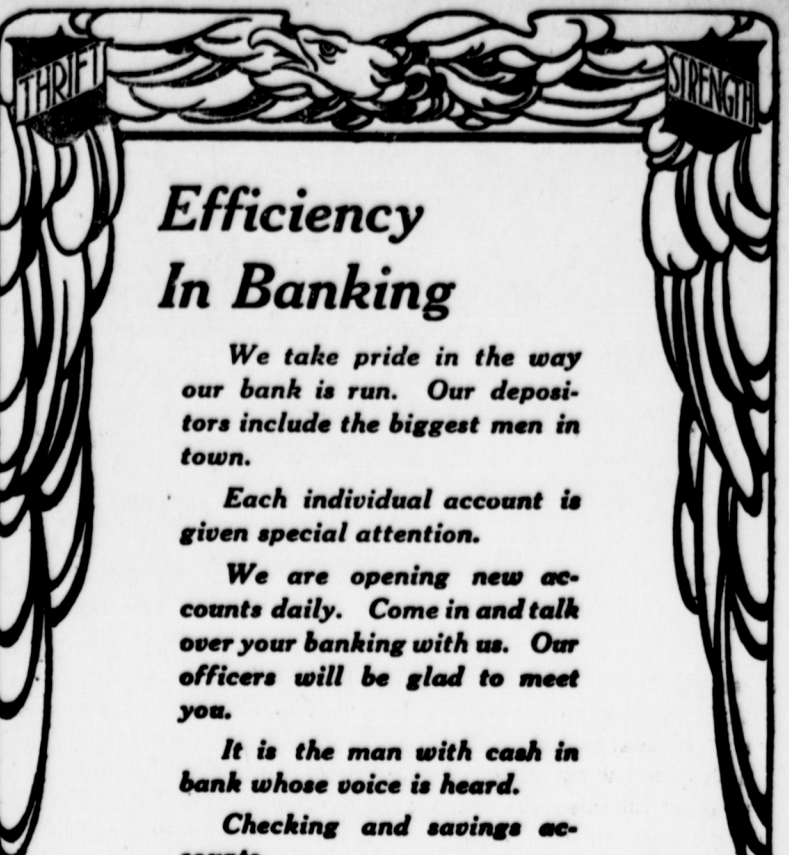

MICHAELIS TALKS TO PRESS

Berlin, July 30.—Dr. Georg Michaelis, the German imperial chancellor, summoned a large number of newspaper men, to whom he declared:

"The speech of David Lloyd-George, the British premier, at Queen's hall, London and the recent debate in the British house of commons against have proved with indisputable clearness that Great Britain does not desire peace by agreement and understanding, but only a conclusion of the war which means the enslavement of Germany to the arbitrary violence of our enemies."

IMPROVEMENTS ON HENDERSON ROUTE.

The Skillman fill at the East end of town will be completed this week. It is a fine piece of work and adds much to the appearance of things at that end of town. It is also a life saver and a money saver not only to the railroad but to all its patrons. What Mr. Hudson is doing for his road now, is, to get it in shape to do business. All the bridges are being reinforced, the trestles filled and all the kinks gotten out of the way so trains can run. It costs money to do this, Mr. Hudson like Mr. Hill when he took hold of the Northern Pacific a-way back in the eighties, realizes that there is a future for the Louisville Henderson & St. Louis Railway. That its possibilities are only limited by its capacity to take care of its business. And in order to take care of the business you must first have a track to run over, good safe and well laid. Then it must have the equipment in engines and rolling stock and next, good, safe, steady men to handle this equipment. These are some of President Hudson's visions and we are glad to say that everything now points to their fulfillment. Mr. Hudson is to the Louisville Henderson & St. Louis Railway Company what Mr. Hill was to the Northern Pacific and Mr. Smith now is to their roads. They are building wisely not only for their road but the communities they serve. Instead of people crying down railroads they should take a new vision and cry them up. And another thing Railroads ought to be allowed to run their own business like other people. While "boosting" is good for Good Roads.

Why not "boost" for good railroads.

Some of the cities adopted the slogan, while raising money for the Red Cross, of "Give till it hurts." This undoubtedly let off a number of rich old codgers with $5.—Commoner.

Yes, and there are some folks who have a comfortable living and it "hurts" them merely to be asked to join the Red Cross.

More than 2,000,000 women have pledged themselves to follow the food administration plan in order to save food within their own household. It will not be necessary for us to have to sign that pledge for we have been taught that "willful waste makes woeful want."

We have two organizations in our town of which we should be proud and we should help boost them too. One is the Red Cross and the other is the Parent-Teachers. They are both helping in a great work.

The Senate Finance Committee has agreed to raise the War Tax bill to $1,943,000,000. Greater part of this will be raised by making the income tax higher. Some consolation in being poor.

The Russian women have had to don the soldier's uniform and go to the front. Some American mothers would rather go to the front than see their sons go.

DEMOCRATIC FORWARD LEAGUE TO VOTERS

Frankfort, Ky., July 18, 1917
Dear Fellow Democrat: In a large number of the legislative and senatorial districts of the state, wet democrats have filed for the democratic nomination at the primaries to be held on August 14th. After having fought Prohibition for years these men now suddenly and loudly declare for the submission of statewide dry amendment to the constitution. In every solitary case, the liquor forces are solidly lined up behind these men.

It is a matter of common notoriety, discussed in the newspapers, that the liquor corporations will not oppose submission but will seek to secure the submission of an amendment with some objectionable feature that will cause its failure at the polls. To accomplish this sinister purpose, the liquor interests are having all their candidates declare for submission. They will seek to organize the legislature with wets just as they have done before, then defy the people as they did at the last regular session and submit a hamstrung amendment acceptable to the liquor barons and nobody else.

We appeal to the loyal democratic voters of Kentucky to see that this liquor scheme is not put across. Whatever you do, don't do the supreme folly of nominating a man for the General Assembly who has always fought statewide Prohibition, even though he strenuously professes an eleventh hour conversion, especially if he has behind him the solid support of the wets. Look out for the candidate who asks you to send him to the legislature to enact into law the very thing he has been fighting all his life. Don't get caught on such bait as that.

The Democratic Forward League was formed to elect democratic members to the legislature who will support in honest dry amendment to the people and then support it after they have submitted it. We want an amendment submitted by its friends and not by its enemies. The dyes have been cheated and tricked and swindled by wet politicians long enough. We want a square deal and the people are going to have it.

We ask that you enlist among our members, signing one of the enclosed enrollment blanks and get your democratic friends to sign the others. Then return them to this office. We will supply you with as many additional blanks as you can use.

Yours for a Dry Kentucky and a Square Deal,

A. J. A. Alexander,
Chairman.

Trustees will please notify all teachers in their respective districts, as is required by law. J. W. Trent, Superintendent.

RUSS RETREAT TO OWN BORDER

Announcement of Flight Comes From Berlin.

ROUMANIANS ARE VICTORS

Germans Are Forced to Retire Before the Roumanian Army—British Big Guns Busy, Also Raid Number Teutonic Trenches.

London, July 30.—Retreating on the eastern Galician front, the Russian troops have retired behind the Russian border at Husiatyn, according to the report from Berlin.

Husiatyn is seventy miles due east of Halicz. Further south the Russians made a stand between the Dniester and the Pruth rivers, but a powerful German attack broke their resistance and they are now being pursued along both banks of the Dniester, according to the German statement.

The Germans say they have completed their retirement before the victorious Roumanian army and have reached their prepared positions on the upper Putna river.

The artillery duel is still raging in Flanders with undiminished intensity. The British guns have never ceased since the terrific bombardment opened last week and the hammering which the German trenches are receiving may be realized from the description in the German official statement which describes the firing as "the highest degree of massed effect" since the war began.

British troops made a number of successful raids on the German trenches at various points of the battle front in northern France, according to the official statement issued by the British war office. Many casualties were inflicted on the enemy and a number of prisoners and machine guns were taken.

French Repulse Germans.
Troops of the German crown prince at dawn made a violent attack on the French positions near Hurtebise farm on the Aisne front. The French official statement says the German attack was repulsed and that the French, in retaliation, later instituted an offensive between Hurtebise farm and La Bovelles, gaining ground at all points on this sector and particularly in the region of the monument.

Reporting military operations on the Austro-Italian front the official statement issued by the war department reads:

"During the night detachments of the enemy descended from Selle pass in San Pellegrino valley, on our lines, and, supported by artillery, attacked with machine gun and rifle fire. They were promptly checked and effectively dispersed by our machine guns.

One of our large bombing air squadrons, escorted by fighters, again raided the military establishments in Idria and in the Chiapovano valley and, notwithstanding a heavy fire from enemy anti-aircraft guns, dropped four tons of high explosives.

A delayed Roumanian official communication announces the capture of of Teutonic allied positions on a front of more than eighteen miles and to a depth of more than nine miles, and also the taking of additional prisoners, guns and munitions.

Premier Kerensky has again started for the front. The destination of M. Kerensky is army headquarters, where he will hold a conference with the commanders on the various fronts and also with Generals Alexieff, Ruzsky and Gurko and former War Minister Gutchkoff. At the conference it will be decided whether M. Kerensky will retain his portfolio of war minister.

Admiral Kolchak, former commander of the Black Sea fleet, is mentioned in connection with the ministry of marine, a post also held by M. Kerensky.

The churches of New York city are valued at $192,000,000.

CARTER'S LANDING

One of the proudest men in Cloverport to-day is the Hon. Chas. Lightfoot. Why, because President Wilson has appointed him postmaster at Cloverport for the second time. Here is congrats, Charlie. If you make as good a postmaster in the future as in the past there will be no kick coming from old Mull. Charlie has two pretty assistants, the Misses Mary Jo Mattingly and Louise Whitehead. They are always on the job, smiling and ready to do their bit.

Will someone please tell us what has become of Sir Robert Pearl Mattingly? We haven't seen him since the crime of seventy-three on account of the war.

Somewhere not in France we met Uncle Hy Tate. He was looking and feeling bad, so bad he couldn't think of a new yarn to uncork on us; asked us to diagnose his case. After taking his temperature and looking at his tongue, we decided he was anaemic. Uncle Hy scratched his head and sezee, "Mull, if I had of known I was suffering with a contagious disease like that, would of had myself quarantined ten days ago." We disappeared around the corner.

Uncle Ben Hardin Improving

Mr. Babbage dropped in to see his old friend "Uncle" Ben Hardin last week. He is confined to his room and bed but is doing fine. He has a splendid appetite he says, "for fried chicken and other good things" his good wife and neighbors provide for him. He says everybody is mighty good to him, especially his children who came from St. Louis to see him.

MAY CONVERT AUTO PLANTS TO AIRCRAFT

Government Call Upon Manufacturers Is Thought Likely.

Detroit.—Owners of automobiles, particularly those who have been accustomed to discard their cars solely because newer models have been placed upon the market, will do well to give the highest degree of care to the cars they now own.

Brigadier General George O. Squier went to Detroit, and it is understood that the purpose of his visit was to confer with the manufacturers of automobiles in regard to obtaining their co-operation in the manufacture of aeroplanes.

There are few factories in the United States that manufacture aeroplanes, and each of these factories makes a different type of craft. The aggregate capacity of these factories is wholly inadequate to meet the demands of the program of the aircraft production board, and it is therefore inevitable that the manufacturers of machinery which can be used as now made or whose plants can be adapted most readily to making parts for aeroplanes will be requested to give precedence to the manufacture of parts suitable for aircraft.

IS GIVING HIS ALL TO CAUSE OF ALLIES

Porter and Shoe Shiner Reserves Only Enough Daily to Keep Himself.

Sandusky, O.—Andrew Francis Patrick Mahon, sixty-seven years old, hotel porter and shoe shiner for more than half a century, is "broke" from doing his "bit."

"But I never was happier," says Mahon, "and until this war ends I am going to keep right on shoving across all the money I can scrape together. I am going to place it where it will do the most good."

Throughout the Red Cross campaign Mahon turned over daily his receipts for the day, less what it cost him for meals. What he ate cost him from 60 to 75 cents a day. Several times he paid to the Red Cross committee sums exceeding $10.

"Now I'm going to start to save so I can buy some more liberty bonds when Uncle Sam finds it necessary to float another issue," said Mahon. "By practicing the strictest economy I ought to be able to subscribe for several of the $100 denomination."

He was the first to subscribe. He took $1,000 worth in the name of a stepson. "Uncle Sam has got to win," he said. "I am too old to fight in the trenches, but I'm not too old to help sustain three or four youngsters who can fight. Every penny I can scrape together over and above what it costs me to keep myself in working trim Uncle Sam and the allies are going to get."

FLAGWOMEN AT CROSSINGS.

Pennsylvania Lines, Short of Men Now Hiring Girls.

Newfield, N. J.—Thousands of excursionists on the electric lines of the West Jersey and Seashore railroad between Camden and the seashore stared in astonishment at a young woman wearing a trim, dark blue straw hat and large, orange colored goggles, who stood guard over the main grade crossing in the town.

This flagman is Miss Daise Ward, the first girl to take up the job at flagging trains on the Pennsylvania's lines in this part of the country. Miss Ward may soon have many women companions on other parts of the division, as the railroad officials have sent out notices to their station agents and foremen to employ women for these places wherever possible in order to free men for the section gangs, in which the railroad is short-handed.

FRUIT FOR SOLDIERS.

Colorado Woman Gives Whole Crop to the Troops.

Denver.—Mrs. John McDonough has given to the Woman's State auxiliary of the national guard a ten acre tract of land on which are growing plums, cherries, peaches and apples, in order that the boys of the militia may have their fill of fruit as fast as it ripens. Details will be sent to pick the fruit.

Whatever fruit is left will be canned and preserved for distribution among the soldiers later.

Mrs. McDonough has opened a large kitchen to a committee, where all fruit not consumed from the trees will be canned.

NOW FEED THEIR HOGS ON ICE CREAM CONES

Chicago.—A new food for hogs has been found in the use of ice cream cones. Recently Edward and Nelson Morris, packers, purchased several tons of broken ice cream cones from manufacturers at $26 a ton and fed them to hogs as an experiment. Corn costs from $1.50 to $1.70 a bushel, and the ice cream cone diet not only proved a saving of money, but it produced a superior class of hogs, according to the Morrises.

HILL'S SON REFUSES TO WEAR SILK TIE

St. Paul.—Louis W. Hill, son of the late railroad magnate and president of the Great Northern, is a friend of King Albert of Belgium. He was made chairman of the committee to meet the Belgian mission, but he wouldn't wear a tall hat. If he had to wear one he wouldn't serve. He bought eight, however, and put them on policemen's heads until the eight were exhausted. Then he wore his old slouch and took the visitors over his railroad and to his home, and they didn't seem to mind the missing hat at all.

WARNING AUTOISTS

New York State Is Reducing
Number of Accidents.

APPEAL FOR "SAFETY FIRST."

Circular Impresses Upon Reader That It Is Far Better to "Stop, Look and Listen" When Approaching Grade Crossings Than to Take a Chance Which May Cost a Life.

Albany, N. Y.—There isn't a better "safety first" device in the entire world than the careful automobile driver, according to Francis M. Hugo, secretary of state, whose office is co-operating with the steam and electric lines of this state in a campaign to lessen the number of grade crossing accidents, which reached appalling numbers last year. By means of a small folder inclosed with every registration card Mr. Hugo has succeeded in reaching close to 350,000 automobilists since last January. The folder is of a type that impresses upon the reader that it is far better to "stop, look and listen" when approaching some grade crossing than to take a chance which may gain a moment or two, but which may cost a life. The observance of the three words of caution now rests almost entirely with the motorists, who are traveling the highways of this state in greater numbers than ever before.

"You can keep on drumming 'safety first' stuff into the ears of some persons for the term of their natural lives," said Secretary Hugo, "but I believe that the campaigns of education are having their effect today, and even should the number of grade crossing accidents loom up to as great proportions as last year headway will nevertheless have been made when it is remembered that there has been a 36 per cent increase in the number of motor vehicles in this state so far this year."

In 1916 there were no less than 125 persons killed and 231 injured on grade crossing accidents in this state alone. Yet the number was greater in Ohio, where 155 were killed in the twelve months, and in Pennsylvania the toll amounted to 159. In the United States last year 1,396 persons were killed and 3,267 were injured in grade crossing accidents, and of the number fully 95 per cent were automobilists.

TABERNACLE DISAPPEARING.

Building Sold For Its Timber to the Bronx Exposition.

New York.—Billy Sunday's tabernacle at One Hundred and Sixty-eighth street and Broadway is disappearing. It took 150 carpenters and 100 laborers nine weeks to build it and cost the William A. Sunday evangelistic committee $68,000. Nearly 1,000,000 feet of lumber were used.

The Rev. Wallace, who built the tabernacle, bought it and the adjoining building and in turn sold them to the Bronx International exposition. The sum paid was not announced. The plans for the Bronx exposition require seventy-two exhibition buildings, in the construction of which the million feet of tabernacle timber will be used.

POISON BEANS IN MINNESOTA.

Burma Product Mysteriously Appears in United States.

St. Paul.—The Minnesota public safety commission is discussing the appearance of poison beans in Minnesota. It has requested the state dairy and food commission to ascertain the source of their shipment to this state and to assist in their seizure.

The poison beans, which closely resemble navy beans, originally were imported from Burma. Whether they were sent to the United States to cause illness or by mistake the commission is unable to determine.

Puzzled by Old Coin.

Philadelphia.—A peculiar gold coin, dated 1806 and about the size of a five dollar gold piece, has been received by Receiving Teller Kiefer at the sub-treasury. The gold in the coin is nearly red. It bears the head of the Goddess of Liberty. It is not the product of any government mint and must have been coined by a private concern. The gold is of a higher grade and weighs more than that of the five dollar gold pieces now in circulation.

"OVER THERE"

The Thrill and the Hell of the Trenches, Described by an American Boy.

Sergeant Alexander McClintock of Lexington, Ky., and the Canadian Army Has Greeting Tale That Every American Will Read, For He Tells the Facts—Unadorned. Wounded, a Distinguished Conduct Medal Man, He Was Invalided Home, but Is Going "Out There" Again to Fight For Uncle Sam and His Allies. An Inspiring, Interesting, Personal Narrative, Full of the Spirit and Atmosphere of the Trenches.

No. 4. Shifted to the Somme

By Sergeant Alexander McClintock,
D. C. M., 87th Overseas Batt.,
Canadian Gren. Guards.

Copyright, 1917, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.

Sergeant McClintock is an American boy of Lexington, Ky., who has seen service in France, was decorated for bravery, wounded, invalided home and now is returning to accept a commission. This is the fourth article in the series. In the first article he told of his training up to the point where he reached the front line trenches. In the second he outlined the elaborate preparations for a bomb raid, and in the third the disastrous raid was described.

A FEW days after the bombing raid, which ended so disastrously for us, our battalion was relieved from duty on the front line, and the tip we got was that we were to go down to the big show then taking place on the Somme. Our relief was a division of Australians. You see, the sector which we had held in Belgium was a sort of preparatory school for the regular fighting over in France. It wasn't long before we got into what you might call the big league contest, but in the meanwhile we had a little rest from battling Fritz and the opportunity to observe some things which seem to me to be worth telling about. Those of you who are exclusively fond of the stirring detail of war, such as shooting and being shot at and bombing and bayoneting, need only skip a little of this. We had an entirely satisfactory amount of smoke and excitement later.

As soon as our relief battalion had got in we moved back to Poperinghe for a couple of days' rest. We were a pretty contented and jovial lot, our platoon especially. We were all glad to get away from the strain of holding a front trench, and there were other advantages. For instance, the alterations of our muster due to casualties had not come through battalion headquarters, and therefore we had in our platoon sixty-three rum rations night and morning and only sixteen men.

It Was Good Clean Fighting. Nobody Fired a Shot.

There was a Canadian Scot in our crowd who said that the only word which described the situation was "g-r-r-r-a-nd!"

There was a good deal of jealousy at that time between the Canadians and the Australians. Each had the same force in the field—four divisions. Either force was bigger than any other army composed exclusively of volunteers ever before assembled. While I belong to the Canadian army and believe the Canadian overseas forces the finest troops ever led to war, I must say that I have never seen a body of men so magnificent in average physique as the Australians. And some of them were even above the high average. The man that punched me in the eye in an "estamina" in Poperinghe made up entirely in his own person for the absence of Les Darcy from the Australian ranks. I don't know just how the fight started between the Australians and us in Poperinghe, but I know that it took three regiments of imperial troops to stop it. The most convincing story I heard of the origin of the battle was told me by one of our men, who said he was there when it began. He said one of the Australians had carelessly remarked that the British generals had decided it was time to get through with the sideshow in Belgium, and this was the reason why they had sent regular troops like the Australians in to relieve the Canadians. Then some sensitive Canadian wished the Australians luck and hoped they'd finish it up as well as they had the affair in the Dardanelles. After that our two days' rest was made up principally of beating it out of estamina when strategic requirements suggested a new base or beating it into estamina when it looked as if we could act as efficient re-enforcements. That fight never stopped for forty-eight hours, and the only places it didn't include were the church and the hospitals. I'll bet to this day that the Belgians who run the estamina in Poperinghe will duck behind the bars if you just mention Canada and Australia in the same breath.

But I'm bound to say that it was good, clean fighting. Nobody fired a shot, nobody pulled a bayonet, and nobody got the wrong idea about anything. The Australian heavyweight champion who landed on me went right out in the street and saluted one of our lieutenants. We had just one satisfying reflection after the fight was over—the Australian battalion that relieved us fell heir to the counterattack which the Germans sent across to even up on our bombing raid.

Down to the Somme. We began our march to the Somme by a hike to St. Omer, the first British headquarters in Europe. Then we stopped for a week about twenty miles from Calais, where we underwent a course of intensified training for open fighting. The infantry tactics, in which we were drilled, were very similar to those of the United States army, those which, in fact, were originated by the United States troops in the days of Indian fighting. We covered most of the ground around Calais on our stomachs in open order. While it may seem impertinent for me, a mere non-com, to express an opinion about the larger affairs of the campaign, I think I may be excused for saying that the war didn't at all take the course which was expected and hoped for after the fight on the Somme. Undoubtedly the allies expected to break through the German line. That is well known now. While we were being trained near Calais for open warfare a very large force of cavalry was being assembled and prepared for the same purpose. It was never used.

That was last August, and the allies haven't broken through yet. Eventually I believe they will break through, but in my opinion men who are drawn for service in the first half million of our new American army will be veterans in Europe before the big break comes which will wreck the Prussian hope of success in this war. And if we of the U. S. A. don't throw in the weight to beat the Prussians now they will not be beaten, and in that case the day will not be very far distant when we will have to beat them to save our homes and our nation. War is a dreadful and inglorious and ill smelling and cruel thing. But if we hold back now we will be in the logical position of a man hesitating to go to grips with a drunken, savage, shrieking, spewing maniac who has all but whipped his proper keepers and is going after the onlooker. However, I wish we had had two months more of weather on the Somme. There might have been a different story to tell.

Simplified Medicine. We got drafts of recruits before we went to the Somme, and some of our wounded men were sent back to England, where we had left our "safety first" battalion. That was really the first first battalion of the Fourth division of the Canadian forces, composed of the physically rejected, men recovering from wounds and men injured in training. The Tommies, however, called it the "safety first" or "Major Gilday's Light Infantry." Major Gilday was our battalion surgeon. He was immensely popular, and he achieved a great name for himself. He made one realize what a great personal force a doctor can be and what an unnecessary elaboration there is in the civil practice of medicine.

Under Major Gilday's administration no man in our battalion was sick if he could walk, and if he couldn't walk there was a reasonable suspicion that he was drunk. The major simplified medicine down to an exact science of two forms of treatment and two remedies—"number nines" and whale oil. "Number nines" were pale oval pills, which, if they had been eggs, would have run about eight to an omelet for six persons. They had an internal effect which could only be defined as dynamic. After our men had become acquainted with them through personal experience they stopped calling them "number nines" and called them "whiz-bangs." There were only two possibilities of error under Major Gilday's system of simplified medicine. One was to take a whiz-bang for trench feet and the other to use whale oil externally for some form of digestive hesitancy. And in either case no permanent harm could result, while the error was as simple of correction as the command "about face." Blighly was therefore not very popular with our battalion, blighly being the trench name for the hospital.

Two weeks and a half after we left Belgium we arrived at Albert, having marched all the way. The sight which met our eyes as we rounded the rock quarry hill outside of Albert was wonderful beyond description. I remember how tremendously it impressed my pal, Macfarlane. He sat by the roadside and looked round over the landscape as if he were fascinated.

"Boy," said he, "we're at the big show at last!"

Poor fellow! It was not only the big show, but the last performance for him. Within sight of the spot where he sat wondering he later fell in action and died. The scene which so impressed him gave us all a feeling of great awe. Great shells from a thousand guns were streaking and criss-crossing the sky. Without glasses I counted thirty-nine of our observation balloons. Away off in the distance I saw one German captive balloon. The other aircraft were uncountable. They were everywhere, apparently in hundreds. There could have been no more wonderful panorama picture of war in its new aspect.

"Boy," said he, "we're at the big show at last."

Our battalion was in and out of the town of Albert several days waiting for orders. The battle of Courcellette was then in progress, and the First, Second and Third Canadian divisions were holding front positions at terrible cost. In the first part of October, 1916, we "went in" opposite the famous Regina trench. The battleground was just miles and miles of debris and shell holes. Before we went to our position the officers and non-coms were taken in by scouts to get the lay of the land. These trips were called "Cook's tours." On one of them I went through the town of Poiziers twice and didn't know it. It had a population of 12,000 before the war. On the spot where it had stood not even a whole brick was left, it seemed. Its demolition was complete. That was an example of the condition of the whole country over which our forces had blasted their way for ten miles since the previous July. There were not even landmarks left.

The "Cook's Tour."

On the night when we went in to inspect the positions we were to hold, our scouts, leading us through the flat desert of destruction, got completely turned round and took us back through a trench composed of shell holes connected up until we ran into a battalion of another brigade. The place was dreadful beyond words. The stench of the dead was sickening. In many places arms and legs of dead men stuck out of the trench walls.

We made a fresh start after our blunder, moving in single file and keeping in touch each with the man ahead of him. We stumbled along in the darkness through this awful labyrinth until we ran into some of our own scouts at 2 a. m. and found that we were halfway across No Man's land, several hundred yards beyond our front line and likely to be utterly wiped out in twenty seconds should the Germans sight us. Fine guides we had on this "Cook's tour." At last we reached our proper position, and fifteen minutes after we got there a whiz-bang, a low explosive murderer, buried me completely. They had to dig me out. A few minutes later a high explosive shell fell in a trench section where three of our men were stationed. All we could find after it exploded were one arm and one leg, which we buried. The trenches were without trench mats, and the mud was from six inches to three feet deep all through them. There were no dugouts, only merely miserable "funk holes," dug where it was possible to dig them without uncovering dead men. We remained in this position four days, from the 17th to the 21st of October, 1916.

There were reasons, of course, for the difference between conditions in Belgium and on the Somme. On the Somme we were constantly preparing for a new advance, and we were only temporarily established on ground which we had but recently taken after long drumming with big guns. The trenches were merely shell holes connected by ditches. Our old and ubiquitous and variously useful friend, the sandbag, was not present in any capacity, and therefore we had no pam-pets or dugouts. The communication trenches were all blown in, and everything had to come to us overland, with the result that we never were quite sure when we would get ammunition, rations or relief forces. The most awful thing was that the soil all about us was filled with freshly buried men. If we undertook to cut a trench or enlarge a funk hole our spades struck into human flesh and the explosion of a big shell along our line sent decomposed and dismembered and sickening mementos of an earlier fight showering among us. We lived in the muck and stench of "glorious" war, those of us who lived.

The German Dugout—and What They Found.

Here and there along this line were the abandoned dugouts of the Germans, and we made what use of them we could, but that was little. I had orders one day to locate a dugout and prepare it for use as battalion headquarters. When I led a squad in to clean it up the odor was so overpowering that we had to put on our gas masks. On entering we first saw two dead nurses with our ghastly flashlights, one standing with her arm around a post, just as she had stood when gas or concussion killed her. Seated at a table in the middle of the place was the body of an old general of the German medical corps, his head fallen between his hands. The task of cleaning up was too dreadful for us. We just tossed in four or five fumite bombs and beat it out of there. A few hours later we went into the seared and empty cavern, made the roof safe with new timbers and notified battalion headquarters that the place could be occupied.

During this time I witnessed a scene which, with some others, I shall never forget. An old chaplain of the Canadian forces came to our trench section seeking the grave of his son, which had been marked for him on a rude map by an officer who had seen the young man's burial. We managed to find the spot, and at the old chaplain's request we exhumed the body. Some of us suggested to him that he give us the identification marks and retire out of range of the shells which were bursting all around us. We argued that it was unwise for him to remain in danger, but what we really intended was that he should be saved the horror of seeing the pitiful thing which our spades were about to uncover.

"I shall remain," was all he said. "He was my boy."

It proved that we had found the right body. One of our men tried to clear the features with his handkerchief, but ended by spreading the handkerchief over the face. The old chaplain stood beside the body and removed his trench helmet, baring his gray head to a drizzle of rain that was falling. Then while we stood by silently his voice rose amid the noise of bursting shells, repeating the burial service of the Church of England. I have never been so impressed by anything in my life as by that scene.

The dead man was a young captain. He had been married to a lady of Baltimore just before the outbreak of the war.

trilians on the Somme was a remarkable reflection of their fine courage through all that hell. They went about their work paying no attention to the flying death about them.

"If Fritz has a shell with your name and number on it," said a British Tommy to me one day, "you're going to get it, whether you're in the front line or seven miles back; if he hasn't, you're all right."

Fine fighters all. And the Scotch kilties, lovingly called by the Germans "the women from hell," have the respect of all armies. We saw little of the poilus, except a few on leave. All the men are self sacrificing to one another in that big melting pot from which so few ever emerge whole. The only thing it is legitimate to steal in the code of the trenches are rum and "fags" (cigarettes). Every other possession is as safe as if it were a patent lock.

The fifth article of this remarkable personal narrative will appear soon it is entitled:

No. 5.—Wounded in Action. This article describes the terrible fight the dead and dying, the loss of a pal and the final falling of McClintock in No Man's Land. Simply told, it is one of the most remarkable descriptions of a battle for a participant ever put together.

FOOD CONFEREES TURN TO WILSON

Unable to Obtain Agreement on Control Bill.

MAY PASS BILL THIS WEEK

Senate Proposals to Establish a War Expenditure Committee and to Create a Board of Three Food Administrators in Dispute.

Washington, July 30.—Failing to obtain an agreement on the administration food control conferees turned to President Wilson, the leaders conferring with him on the two points remaining in dispute—the senate proposals to establish a congressional committee to supervise war expenditures and to create a board of three food administrators instead of one.

Upon all other questions the conference committee reached a complete agreement. Final enactment of the bill this week is hoped for by the conferees, but not regarded as certain.

Representative Lever, representing the house conferees, and Senator Chamberlain, who handled the bill in the senate for the administration, took up with President Wilson the two remaining differences. The conferees are to meet again after the White House conferences. Several of them are doubtful of the outcome, however, believing a partial disagreement will result in submission of disputed questions to both legislative branches for another vote.

The president has declared the war committee would be embarrassing and would indicate lack of confidence in his conduct of the war. Should he insist upon elimination of the proposal, as expected, it appears probable that the senate conferees would yield the point today, leaving a disagreement only on the food question.

Numerous other changes have been agreed to in the bill, with most of the principal senate amendments accepted.

The conferees agreed that in addition to foods, feeds and fuels, the government shall control "fuel oil and natural gas, fertilizer and fertilizer ingredients, tools, utensils, implements and equipment required for the actual production thereof; all denominated as necessities. The so-called control section of the house bill, much broader than the senate's was adopted authorizing federal regulation affecting speculation, distribution and movement of the designated necessities.

The prohibition section, agreed to prohibits manufacture or importation of distilled beverages during the war, and authorizes the president to limit the alcoholic contents of beer and wines and to commandeer distilled beverages when necessary. This was a substitute for the house bone dry section and for the senate prohibition of distilled beverage manufacture. The Smoot amendment, directing federal purchase of all distilled spirits in bond, was stricken out.

RIOTERS WRECK CHURCH

Attempt to Hold Peace Meeting Results in Fight.

London, July 30.—An attempt by the Workers' and Soldiers' Council, an organization recently formed on the lines of the Soldiers' and Workmen's Council in Russia, to hold a peace meeting at the Brotherhood church in Kingsland, resulted in riotous scenes, during which the interior of the church was virtually wrecked and a number of persons seriously injured.

Before the meeting could be called to order a determined crowd, which included some wounded soldiers, rushed the doors and in spite of the stubborn resistance of those inside, forced their way into the church and demanded that the meeting be stopped. A general melee followed.

MAN METER USED IN SELECTION OF OFFICERS

Psychology Expert at Fort Sheridan Has Devised a Unique Standard.

Uncle Sam is using a "man meter" in the selection of the officers for the new national army.

Dr. Walter Dill Scott, former head of the department of psychology of Northwestern university, now a government expert, visited Fort Sheridan, Ill., the other day. The "man meter" is said to be his invention—the result of the application of his knowledge of psychology to the task of judging men. At the request of a number of industrial leaders he used the same plan in connection with big business organizations, but for some time he has been in government service.

His plan was presented to the instructors of the reserve officers' training camp, but it will be used only in part, as it came some time after the selective machinery had been grinding. He previously had presented it at Plattsburg, Fort Myer and Fort Benjamin Harrison, where it is said to have been adopted. And it is expected it will be used throughout the second camps.

The theory of the "man meter" is the establishment of standards by which a man may be judged. Dr. Scott found a means of doing this. As it is applied to the army's present task, the basis is established by the instructor's comparison of the candidate he is judging with ten army captains under whom he has served.

There are five points to be scored—physical qualities, intelligence, military leadership, character and general value to the service. Each of the first four is allowed a maximum of fifteen points and the last a maximum of forty points, making 100 the highest possible or ideal score.

The things to be considered in connection with each point are outlined. For example, under "intelligence" the instructor considers "ease of learning, capacity to apply knowledge and ability to grasp readily and solve new problems."

FIND NEW SLACKER GAME.

Federal Agents Believe "Farmers" Ought Not to Be Employed.

A new "slacker" ruse was found when it was learned that federal agents have recently been investigating the payrolls of a number of farmers of Newton, Flushing and Great Neck, N. Y. Certain farm hands are wanted who are supposed to receive $6 a week for playing golf and tennis and living on the farm.

The farmers, it is said, have received compensation for "employing" young sons of the rich Long Island set who believed that by registering as farmers they could escape conscription. The farmers, it is believed, have in certain cases given away their own game, for they got tired of "the young swells who didn't know the difference between a grub hook and a cultivator" and began to talk about their "employees."

A SOLDIER'S PRAYER.

By HAROLD MACGRATH of the Vigilantes.

Lord, give me this day my manhood to stand straight. Lead me into battle with a clean heart and a sober mind. Deliver me from blind hate and wanton ruthlessness. Give me only that white anger that lends righteousness to battle.

Help me to preserve the idea of my forefathers.

Let me keep my mother's face before me and the feel of my father's hand upon my shoulder and strengthen them against the day when I shall return no more.

Amen.

ALL AROUND THE FARM

SELECTING THE STALLION.

Sire's Influence Is Predominant and He Should Be Chosen With Care. [Prepared by United States department of agriculture.]

The stallion is the key to successful horse breeding and therefore should be chosen with the greatest care. The influence of the sire is predominant, because he directly affects a greater number of offspring than does the single female. Horse breeders should recognize the fact that it is not a paying proposition simply to breed mares to any stallion that may be available. A sound, pure bred stallion should be used if the best results are to be obtained.

Draft stallion showing weight, long croup, short, smooth coupling and well sloped shoulders, the head denoting intelligence and refinement.

The stallion selected should conform as closely as possible to the breed and type of the mares that are to be bred. Stallions of pure breeding are, by virtue of their unmixed ancestry, possessed of greater prepotency than are grades or scrubs and will therefore invariably impress their offspring with their breed characteristics and individual merit.

A low service fee is too often the deciding factor with many farmers and mare owners in the selection of a sire. A low service fee ought never to be a temptation, but, rather, should be taken as a warning. A low fee is usually a sign of an inferior stallion. Colts from inferior or scrub sires will sell for much less than those sired by the sound, pure bred stallion.

Sound, high class horses are the ideal farm power, and good mares bred to pure bred sires of the same breed and conformation pay good profits not only in the colts they produce, as has been shown, but also in the labor they perform. Poor horses render poor service and often cost more to keep than they are worth. The loss in feed consumed and lack of labor performed by the inferior and scrub horses of the country is enormous. This expense can be greatly reduced if farmers and mare owners will breed their mares to the right sort of stallions and produce the kind of horses the farm requires and the market demands.

The time to begin is now. All inferior pure bred colts and all grade and mongrel colts should be castrated. Only the best mares should be retained and these bred to sound, pure bred sires. One of the best ways to stimulate interest in the breeding of better horses is to arrange to hold a fall colt show. A string of promising colts will afford striking evidence of the result of breeding the best and prove a splendid advertisement for the community.

REARING SPRING PIGS.

Youngsters Should Have a Dry Bed and Be Carefully Fed.

A comfortable house with dry bedding means much to the spring pigs, writes J. Coleman in the Farm and Fireside. In fact, all other conditions may be perfect, and yet if this point is neglected failure may result.

The pigs will soon learn to eat. The amount of feed can be increased as they advance in age, but they shouldn't be fed more than they will clean up nicely. An occasional scalding and sunning of the trough will keep it clean.

The first four months of a pig's life determine largely what his after success is. Never let him lose his pig fat during this time. Prepare for ample grazing as soon as the soil is warm enough by sowing rape or rape and grain mixed. This can be grazed by the pigs within six to eight weeks after sown. Allow them to run on any green crops, especially clover or vetch, as soon as they will graze.

A succession of field grazing crops maturing through the summer and fall will supplement their daily grain ration and will enable them to produce their gain at a profit. Pigs fed on grain alone, with little or no grazing crops, will return little or no profit.

Cleaning Alfalfa of Weeds.

Alfalfa which is two or more years old should be thoroughly disked or harrowed after the first cutting. Fields which are absolutely weedless do not need much disk or harrowing, but the ordinary field, where blue grass, redtop or similar grasses have come in, should be given a thorough disk or harrowing. On the average farm the disk is the best available tool which can be used, or the spring tooth harrow will do. The object is to tear out the grass.—American Agriculturist.

FAIRNESS TO RULE IN TRAINING MEN

No Favoritism in New Army,
Secretary Baker Pledges.

AMUSEMENTS FOR TROOPS.

All Safeguards of Science and Medicine Will Be Thrown Around Training Camps—Tells of the Great Steps Forward That Have Been Taken in the Different Branches of the Service.

What the government promises to the great army of young men being called to the colors and to their fathers and mothers has been outlined by Secretary of War Baker.

"It is provided in the law that when these armies are assembled there shall be no difference between the regular, the national guard and the national army," said the secretary. "But every man, whether he has had training in the regular army or not, whether he has had training in the guard or not, whether he be a member of the selective national army, is equal in dignity, in responsibility and in opportunity, a member of the army of the United States.

"There will be preserved that just pride which the people of our several states have in their own soldier boys, so that the soldier from New York will be known as a part of the contribution of this great commonwealth to our national strength and the soldier from Wisconsin and from Ohio and from Texas equally designated, but the eyes of the country in all that is done for them and in all that they do for us there is to be neither distinction nor prejudice nor favoritism, but they stand equal as the servants and as the upholders of our liberties.

Amusements Planned.

"Modern times have witnessed many new things. The great science of medicine and sanitation has wonderfully advanced, and all the safeguards that knowledge and science can throw around our soldiers is to be placed about them. And in these great encampments where they are to be trained modern recreation experts are to provide wholesome and attractive amusements for their leisure, so that when they come out of the army they will have no scars except those honorably won in warfare against the enemy of their country."

Mr. Baker assumed the war portfolio with the reputation of a pacifist. There are many public men who still regard him as too much of a pacifist to administer the war department efficiently in time of war. The secretary is bent upon confounding these doubting souls. He may be a pacifist, but he believes this war is a righteous war, being fought to bring the world nearer universal peace.

"In 1776, on the 4th day of July, a nation was born, dedicated to a new theory of government and a new ideal of human liberty," he said. "On the 4th day of July, 1917, our newspapers announced throughout a vast and populous continent to a people who for more than 100 years have known political liberty and with it unexampled progress that an expeditionary force of their soldiers had landed, without the loss of a man, on the soil of France to defend in that place the great principle of democracy and liberty under which they have thrived so long.

Devoted to Justice.

"America has chosen—nay, she chose in 1776—that she intended to be democratic in her policies and in her government, and our whole history of more than 100 years justifies the statement that our people are welded and devoted to the idea of international justice as the rule upon which nations shall live together in peace and amity upon the earth.

"So that when we entered this war we entered it in order that we and our children and our children's children might fabricate a new and better civilization under better conditions, enjoying liberty of person, liberty of belief, freedom of speech and freedom as to our political institutions.

"We entered this war to remove from ourselves, our children and our children's children the menace which threatened to deny us that right.

"Never during the progress of this war let us for one instant forget the high and holy mission with which we entered it, no matter what the cost, no matter what the temptation.

"Let us bring out of this war the flag of our country as untarnished as it goes in, sanctified and consecrated to the establishment of liberty for all men who dwell on the face of the earth."

Asked to say a word on the scope of the war preparations he is superintending, Mr. Baker replied:

"The mere business of this enterprise is very great. Perhaps I can give some idea to you of what it means if I quote for your information a few comparative figures.

"Take, for instance, the subject of aeronautics. In 1915 the congress appropriated something less than half a million dollars for the building of aircraft in the army. In 1917 the appropriation was $47,000,000, and now congress has appropriated the great sum of $640,000,000 for the building of aeroplanes."

CONGRESS BUSY WITH BIG ISSUES

Indefinite Prolongation of Session Likely.

IMPORTANT MEASURES UP

Prohibition Has Right of Way in the Senate—House Is Marking Time Waiting Conference Report on Food Bill.

Washington, July 30.—Congress this week has all three of the big issues—food control, revenue and prohibition—on the congressional calendar, with minor questions coming up in such numbers that the leaders are about resigned to indefinite prolongation of the session.

The immediate work to be done on food and revenue legislation must be done in committee, but before the week is over the food conferees and the senate finance committee, revising the war tax bill, hope to report out their measures.

Meantime prohibition has the right of way in the senate, which it took up today for a vote Wednesday, the resolution of Senator Sheppard proposing submission of a national prohibition amendment of the constitution.

Senator Sheppard plans to open the prohibition discussion, which promises a lively contest, touching many war questions. The vote, both sides admit, will be extremely close. Dry leaders hope for about sixty-five votes, or just about the necessary two-thirds for adoption. The resolution still would have to pass the house, which in 1914 rejected a similar measure.

During the week the senate commerce committee expects to report the trading with the enemy bill. Chairman Chamberlain of the military committee will bring in his bill for drafting the subjects of the European allies in this country and Senator McCumber's resolution authorizing the president to negotiate treaty changes to permit such drafting will be reported from the foreign relations committee.

The house is in recess waiting for the conference report on the food bill, but there is a growing sentiment that if the extra session is to continue indefinitely the channels of general legislation, now closed under a general understanding to consider only urgent administration matters, should be opened up. Veteran members are pessimistic about any early adjournment and a large proportion of the house membership is away.

Hearings on the $5,000,000,000 estimates for the army as a basis for a recordbreaking general deficiency bill began today in the house appropriation committee, and on Tuesday the house military committee will take up an alien drafting bill similar to that to be reported to the senate.

AMERICAN SHIP IS SUNK

Victim of Bombs at Entrance of British Channel.

London, July 30.—After being attacked by gunfire by a German submarine the American bark Carmela was sunk by bombs in the entrance of the English Channel on July 27, says an official statement issued by the British admiralty. The statement follows:

"American sailing vessel Carmela, of 1,379 tons from New York, was attacked by gunfire by a German submarine and subsequently sunk by bombs in the entrance to the English Channel on July 27. The crew was picked up and landed by a war vessel at Plymouth. There were no casualties."

Germany Grants Indemnity.

Buenos Aires, July 30.—The German reply to the Argentine note on the question of torpedoing Argentine ships, which has just been received, was taken under advisement by the council of ministers. It is understood Germany has granted indemnity in the case of those already sunk and promises to respect all Argentine vessels which do not carry contraband of war.

Smugglers Infest Holland.

The Hague, Netherlands, July 30.—How widespread and deeply-rooted is the smuggling evil on Holland's frontiers may be judged from the fact that in the southern provinces of Limburg and North Brabant alone, 11,000 persons have been banished from the regions declared in a state of seige.

Iron Miners Strike.

Bessemer, Mich., July 30.—A general strike of all miners on the Gogebic iron range has been called as a result of a vote taken at a mass meeting. The strike began at 7 o'clock this morning. Operators declared that most of the men were now satisfied with working conditions and would not strike.

Fort Physician Killed.

Indianapolis, July 30.—Dr. V. A. Magenheimer, forty-one, of Mooresville, Ind., member of the medical corps at Fort Benjamin Harrison, was killed when an auto he was driving was struck by an interurban at Springer's Crossing, near Fort Harrison.

Hogs of Red, White and Blue. Hutchinson, Kan.—One Hutchinson swine raiser, L. E. Griffith, is patriotic to the limit. All of his hogs are red, white and blue. He has Duroc Reds, Chester Whites and the new breed of blue hogs, known to breeders as the Supphires. Griffith, who is nicknamed Red for obvious reasons declares that there is nothing blue about him, although he is shipping in corn at $1.65 a bushel to feed to his red, white and blue hogs.

SEARCH FOR A STOLEN GREEK MARBLE HEAD

Supposed to Be Hidden in Railroad Laborers' Camp.

Lincoln, Neb.—In a box car camp of Greek railroad laborers somewhere along the line of the Union Pacific railroad there is a priceless marble head of the Greek goddess of health, carved by a Greek sculptor of the fourth century B. C., and stolen from the museum at Tegea, Greece, where the balance of the statue of the goddess still stands. The governors of Nebraska and Wyoming have been asked to investigate and see if they cannot locate the missing head. The request comes from Secretary of State Lansing and is made at the request of the Greek government at Athens. There are thousands of Greek laborers on western railroads, and some one of these is thought to have stolen the head of the goddess before he left Greece. The request from the state department does not give the details of the theft. The head is thirty centimeters in height, according to the description inclosed in the request that a search of the railroad camps be made.

HALF OF U. S. DOCTORS ARE UNFIT FOR ARMY

More Than 70,000 Will Be Eliminated by the Standardization Process.

Washington.—Of the 140,000 physicians in the United States less than one-half are available or desirable for medical duty in the military service. In the opinion of the New York committee of the medical section of the Council of National Defense. Therefore it proposes drafting of physicians selectively upon a basis of federal classification by a medical census. These views have been laid before the general medical board by Major Karl Connell and other members of the New York committee. The committee also set forth that there is a decided shortage of physicians ready to volunteer for war work. The committee on standardization of medical and surgical supplies and equipment, which has been at work on the problem of overcoming the shortage in surgical supplies and instruments due to the large percentage of this material which has heretofore been imported from Germany, reported that through co-operation among American manufacturers substantial progress had been made in increasing the output for war purposes. The committee is rapidly perfecting a complete standardization of all medical instruments and apparatus, through which the simplest type and the smallest number of styles of instruments consistent with scientific performance will be turned out by all manufacturers.
